Role and Responsibilities

We know that working in the finance sector is often a challenging way to make a living. As an FSU Rep, you play a vital role in meeting these challenges.

Being an FSU Rep requires a commitment to continually work in support of your colleagues to improve your rights and working conditions. As the Union Rep for your workplace, you will have the confidence of knowing that you have the support of your fellow members. Members in your workplace will look to you for help and assistance, and often for leadership on particular issues. Reps are involved in all aspects of workplace changes and reforms.

Union Reps know what is going on at work and can sometimes change things for the benefit of everyone. It is a very rewarding and incredibly empowering role.

Your key duties as an FSU Rep

The key responsibilities of the Union Rep are set out in the FSU Rules:

1. Listen to members' issues and provide basic information, support and advice to help sort out local problems in the workplace.
2. Represent the views of FSU members within your area.
3. Promote the FSU and recruit new Union members.
4. Encourage interest and discussion in FSU matters and keep members up to date by sharing information from the Union office.
5. Participate in FSU training courses and Union meetings.
6. Keep the FSU noticeboard in your workplace up to date with current Union material.
7. Stay in touch with your Organiser and be a link between the members in your workplace and the FSU Office.
8. Keep the membership records up to date in your workplace.
9. Help people get involved in the Union.

I have read the above and understand the duties associated with the role of FSU Workplace Representative.
